DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims are directed to a method, article or system for calculating the value of a function given an argument via a mathematical algorithm. The claims are not limited to a practical application of the mathematical algorithm because the result, i.e. the value of the function, is not a tangible result because it is not a real-world result.

Claims 1-11 are directed to program per se. While the program contains functionally descriptive material the recording of the functionally descriptive material on some computer-readable medium, which would enable the functionality to be realized, fails to be recited.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 3-12 and 14-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Defour.

Art Unit: 2193

Defour's pages 11-12 teaches computation of a function by reducing an input argument to a range reduced value r (the equation for r at the bottom of page 11), approximating a polynomial for a corresponding function of r (second to last paragraph on page 12 reads "sin (r) and cos (r) are computed by polynomial approximation and obtaining a first result for the function (performing the computation for sin (r)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In all of the independent claims A and fail to be defined.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
